LONDON: Oxford Dictionaries recognized the power of the millennial generation on Friday with its 2017 word of the year: ‘youthquake’.

Oxford lexicographers say there was a fivefold increase in use of the term between 2016 and 2017. It is defined as “a significant cultural, political, or social change arising from the actions or influence of young people”.

The word, coined almost 50 years ago by Diana Vreeland, then the editor of Vogue magazine, has been used to describe phenomena including surging youth support for Britain’s Labour Party and the election of 30-something leaders in France and New Zealand.

Each year, Oxford University Press tracks how the English language is changing and chooses a word that reflects the annual mood. Oxford Dictionaries president Casper Grathwohl said youthquake has “yet to land firmly on American soil, but strong evidence in the UK calls it out as a word on the move”.

Bonfire Night or ‘Guy Fawkes Day’, is celebrated in the United Kingdom on November 5 every year and has a very interesting history.

In 1605, King James I passed strict laws against the Catholics. They would be punished if they didn’t attend the Protestant church. Some English Catholics were so angry that they planned to blow up the House of Parliament in protest. They put 36 barrels of gunpowder in the Parliament building and Guy Fawkes was to light them when the king came to open the Parliament on November 5. Unfortunately for him, the police found the gunpowder before it exploded and they caught him and the other men involved in the plot. The men were tortured and killed. To celebrate his survival, King James I ordered the people of England to have a bonfire on the night of November 5. Bonfire Night went on to become a tradition, celebrated as Guy Fawkes Day.

Traditional Bonfire Night food is hot baked potatoes. However, in the north of England people eat a special type of cake called parkin. This is a way to make it. First, grease a cake tin and line with buttered paper. Then, beat an egg and milk together with a fork. Next, gently melt syrup, treacle (a thick sweet black liquid), sugar and butter together in a large pan until the sugar has dissolved. After that, mix together oatmeal, flour and ginger and stir into the syrup mixture, followed by the egg and milk. Finally, pour the mixture into the tin and bake for 50 minutes to 1 hour until the cake feels firm and a little crusty on top. Cool in the tin then wrap in foil and keep for 3-5 days before eating.
23. Why was there a revolt in England in 1605?
   1. Catholics were being sentenced to death.
   2. Guy Fawkes broke King James I’s laws.
   3. Protestant churches used to punish Catholics.
   4. Catholics did not agree with recently passed laws.

24. Why were bonfires ordered to be lit on the night of November 5?
   1. To honor the Catholics who were killed
   2. To celebrate the success of the revolt of 1605
   3. To remember the protestors of November 5
   4. To mark King James I’s escaping assassination

25. What is the correct order of steps for making parkin?
   A. Pour the mixture into the tin
   B. Beat an egg and milk together.
   C. Mix together oatmeal, flour and ginger.
   D. Bake for 50 minutes to 1 hour
   E. Melt syrup, treacle, sugar and butter together until the sugar has dissolved.

On the other side of the sea from Rome, there was once a great city named Carthage. Rome was not on good terms with Carthage and at last a war occurred between them. For a long time, it was hard to tell which was the stronger. First, the Romans won a battle, and then the Carthaginians did. The war went on for many years.

It happened after a while that Regulus, a brave Roman general, lost a battle and was taken prisoner to Carthage. While he was in prison, the rulers of Carthage came to talk with him. They promised to set him free if he could persuade the Roman rulers to make peace with them. They also made him promise that he would return to prison if the Roman rulers refused to make peace. Regulus agreed to do so.

When Regulus arrived in Rome, he was warmly greeted. The Roman law makers came to see him and Regulus told them that he was sent from Carthage to ask them to make peace. But he thought that the Romans should not do so because sooner or later Carthage would be defeated. The next day, after bidding farewell to his wife, children and Rome, Regulus started back to Carthage as he had promised to face a cruel death.

Reading 6: Items 31-35

Read the research study.

(1) About 25 years ago, a group of Canadian scientists wanted to create a strain of salmon that could survive in fish farms in the cold water off New Brunswick. They took genetic material from Chinook salmon and from an eel-like fish called the ocean pout and injected it into the eggs of an Atlantic salmon. The result was a fast-growing fish that looks and tastes like a regular farmed Atlantic salmon. Some people call it a “super salmon,” while others call it “Frankenfish,” after the fictional monster created by Dr. Frankenstein.

(2) The controversial fish, called the AquAdvantage salmon, has been genetically modified. That means some of its DNA has been artificially changed. The modified salmon is also “transgenic,” which means genetic material from a different type of organism has been artificially added to the salmon’s DNA.

(3) The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which regulates food in the United States, studied the salmon for several years. In 2010, they decided that the salmon was safe to eat and would have “no significant impact” on the environment – as long as it was raised in special facilities and could not accidentally be released into rivers or oceans.

(4) Because so many people requested that the FDA reconsider its decision, the FDA asked for comments from the public. It received more than 35,000 responses. It is still considering these comments and has not yet announced whether it will allow the salmon to be sold as food for humans.

31. What is the main idea of the article?
1. Salmon has become the world’s first genetically modified animal.
2. Modified salmon’s safety as food is still questionable.
3. The request to market modified salmon has been withdrawn.
4. The U.S. FDA has reconsidered the safety of the Atlantic salmon.
32. According to the passage, which of the following is TRUE?
   1. The AquAdvantage salmon is well accepted by consumers.
   2. The modified salmon is called “Frankenfish” by those who oppose it.
   3. The FDA has officially approved the sale of modified salmon to consumers.
   4. The modified salmon contains a growth hormone gene from a farmed Atlantic salmon.

33. What is NOT mentioned in the passage?
   1. The final decision of the FDA
   2. The benefits of the modified salmon
   3. The process of creating a transgenic organism
   4. The scientists’ purposes for creating modified salmon

34. What can be inferred from paragraph 3?
   1. The wild salmon may be extinct in the near future.
   2. The FDA will hold another public hearing on the issue of modified salmon.
   3. The modified salmon would become the first transgenic animal to enter the food supply.
   4. The modified salmon could harm the environment if they went by chance into rivers or oceans.

35. How do the people who use the term “Frankenfish” feel about modified salmon?
   1. Safe
   2. Excited
   3. Hopeful
   4. Nervous
